

Call for entries:

AIA New England Design Awards Program, 2010

Deadline: July 27

Any structure or building of any size or project type anywhere in the world designed by a New England architect/firm; or any structure or building or project type built in New England by any architect/firm anywhere in the world is eligible.

The sole judging criterion is design excellence. The jury is empowered to determine the extent to which design excellence is informed by aesthetic, functional, contextual, sustainability, social or other characteristics. The jury may elect to honor projects by building type or other categories or may choose to make no such distinctions.

Eligibility

Structures or buildings (or groups of either) of any size and any project type (including rehabs, interior architecture, monuments, etc.) completed after January 1, 2003 are eligible.

Associate AIA members and other unlicensed architecture graduates may submit projects that do not require the stamp of a licensed professional. Projects that have been honored by AIA New England design awards in past years and work by the design professionals serving as jurors this year (or by their firms) are not eligible.

Entry Fees

The non-refundable fee for the first submission is $150 for New England AIA members; $250 for all others. The fee for each additional submission by the same architect or firm is $100 for New England AIA members and $165 for all others.

Submission

Complete this entry form and mail it with your entry fee and design materials to:

AIA New England Design Awards Program/2010
